Fifteen successive defeats had made the last two days weakened the ice sufficiently for McCloskey's Blue Grass lads to smash a big hole and chuck the Wash-

Ataman's race in the mile event was the feature of the day. He gave Valkyrie fifteen pounds and a beating in the cieverest kind of fashion, going the distance in 1 41 3-4. At the end he was pulled to a walk. Darkcess also showed what a good horse he is. He was in the last event, six and one-half furlongs, and went to the post favorite at 8 to 5.

Belisarius was heavily played to beat him, but was never in the hunt. Dyer's horse got off next to last and, turning into the stretch, looked to be beaten. He was game to the core, however, and, running under ington team in for a bath. Truth to say, however, it required the able bodied assistance of a good part of the home team to fracture the glacier, Perhaps the boys have been in last place often themselves that in sheer pity for the present holders they made up their minds to give them a brace. What

There was a great deal of howling at Tim Keefe, and His Nibs certainly lad a very cr ss-eyed focus on the home plate, when balls were coming over, but all his mistakes combined could not do so much damage as the wild-eyed throwing and Trilby stops of Joyce, Boyd and Cartwright. good winners on the day.

on the bleacher fence and Collins nailed him three times and Boyd twice. No less than seventeen men when out on high flies, and all but one perished thus in the last four innings. Mercer was far less effective than usual and seemed to be enervited by the heat.

He made great use of his slow ball and it filled a long-felt want in the Louisville team. Collins and Weich in particular, tucking up to it like a sick kitten to a hot beick.

Mercer felt like a sick kitten on several occasions, but even with all the hard usage that his delivery received, good fielding would have pulled him through triumphrush of money came in on the altter. By post time Valkyrie was at 6 to 5. with Ataman an even money chance.

Donnelly set a clipping pace on Valkyrie to the head of the stretch where Ataman took the lead and wongalloping. Valkyrie swerved badly lifty yards from the wire and finished fourth.

Only one run was earned by the Colonels and it was about horse and horse between Mercer and the field.

Mercer and the field.

The only opening for a really fine batting streak was nipped in the bud by a reckless piece of base running by Joyce, who attempted to steal home on a stort pass in the fourth with no one out and was nailed to the rubber. Had be held his base Cartwright's crack to left would have made thr runs sure with no one out and endless pos sibilities for a regular killing match. IT WAS SUDDEN DEATH.

McGuire played a great game. His throwing arm was sudden death on two occasions to the fleet-footed Clarke, who disputes with Mercer and Tom Brown the sprinting honors of the league; fooled Grandpa Brouthers into a trap by a fake throw to second, lost another of the same sort by Boyd's error, and made a lightning pick-up and throw to first off Collins' bunt, besides beating out a bunt himself. It was intended for a sacrifice, but Jim so paralyzed Shugart by his sprinting that he couldn't pick up the ball in time.

Abbey and Selbach had some difficult chances to attend to, and did brilliant and faultless work.

Joyce did a fine bit of work in the eighth on a great left-handed stop of Cunning-ham's grounder, retiring him at first, and Crooks handled everything that came his who collared Cunningham's peculiar de-livery for more than one hit and not a single extra base was made off him, and in spite of his wildness, only one of his seven bases resulted in a run for lack of hits to utilize them. SENATORS RECEIVED GIFTS.

Washington received gifts enough in the first inning to furnish three runs. Two bases and a wild pitch were handed down bases and a wild pitch were handed down by Cunvingham and Kemmer chipped in a wild throw but Hassamer's intended sacrifice resulted in Selbach being caught at third and MeGuire and Cartwright put files.

Two runs were scored in the second. After Joyce had begun with a fly to Collins, Hassamer walked to first and MeGuire drove a single to right, sending Bill to third, whence he scored on Cunningham's disastrous throw to catch Macnapping at first.

Cartwright drew four balls, and after Boyd struck out Crook's smash to left sent McGuire home. Crooks was caught stealing second.

Meanwhile the visitors had been making things uncomfortable.

Boyd picked up Preston's grounder well, but made a bad throw to first; the big fielder made a successful steal of recoud ored on successive outs of Shugart and O'Brien by Crooks to Cartwright, Brouthers dropped a safe fly in center and Joyce made a bad throw off Clarke's grounder, but Dan was caught between third and home and run out.

In the second Keramer caught a slow one for a bounder over third, and Welch dropped one between Selbach and Abbey. Collins sacrificed, and on Cunningham's fly to Selbach Kemmer tallied. Cartwright got mixed up by the sun and Preston's fly descended on his head and not in his hands, and Collins came in with the third com-

Welch put a double down past Joyce in the fourth, and after the next two had gone out and Mercer had pasted Preston on the ribs, scored on Boyd's muff of

SOME PRETTY BATTING.

Washington tied the store in the fifth by some pretty batting, leading off with three singles. Joyce and Hassamer sent safe grounders to fight and McGuire lapped an intended, sacrifice, which rolled so slowly to Shidgart that Mac beat it out. After Joyce had been put out trying to score on a pass, Cariwright brought in two runs by a fine drive to left, taking second on Clarke's slow bandling.

Boyd struck out, Crooks got a base on balls, but Abbey was declared out for obstructing a fielder, and the promising spirt died out.

In the remainder of the game the Senators failed to get a man to second. Louisville forged ahead again; in the fifth by one run after two wers spit, on Mercer's error and hard singles by Welch and Collins, and clinched the victory by two more in the sixth.

After Cartwright had retired Preston on a well-bandled grounder, Joyce first fumbled and then threw wild on O'Brion's SOME PRETTY BATTING.

After Cartwright had retired Preston-on a well-handled grounder, Joyce first fumbled and then threw wild on O'Brion's hit to his territory, the second basemman reaching second. Stugart sent a short fly to center and stole second. McGuire threw short to draw O'Brien off third but Boyd dropped the ball and the runner scored, Shugart following him home on Brouther's out and Clarte's successful bunt.

In the next two innings the visitors did not reach first. Attendance 1.860. The score:

aggregation of youngsters who have long been regarded locally as invincible on the diamond field. After walloping all the nines of the surrounding country, they yearned for more nines to conquer, and boldly issued a challenge to the Omaha clab. It was accepted. The two organizations crossed hats in Quincy Friday—unfucky day—and the Quincy Herald thus explained what happened:

The glass-armed toy soldiers of this town were fed to the pigs yesterday by the cadaverous Indian grave robbers from Omaha. The flabby, one-lunged Reubens who represent the Gem City in the reckless rush for the basebadil pennant had their shins tonated by the basilistic-weed cattle drivers from the West. They stood around with gaping eyesbadis like a ben on a hot nail, and suffered the grizzly yaps from Omaha to run the bases till their necks were long from thirst. Hickey had more errors than Coin's Financial School, and led the rheumatic procession to the morgue. The Quincys were full of straw and scrap iron. They couldn't hit a brick wagon with a pickax and ran bases like pailibearers at a funeral. If three-base hits were growing on the back of every man's neck they couldn't reach 'em with a feather duster. It looked as three-base hits were growing on the back of every man's neck they couldn't reach 'em with a feather duster. It looked as if the Amaigamated Union of South American Hoodoos was in session for work in the 33d degree. The geezers stood about and whistled for help and were so weak they couldn't lift a glass of beer if it had been all foam. Everything was yellow, rocky, and wang-hasted like a stigtossel full of doodle gammon. The game was whiskered and frostbitten. The Omahogs were bad enough, but the Quincy Brown Sox had their fins sewed up until they couldn't hold a craxy quilt unless it was fied around their necks.—Minneapolis Journal. Juliet and Caroven were both badly in-terfered with on the turn for home. Mrs. Stuart crossed right in front of the latter, forcing Detehanty to pull him almost to a noon, but the two errors cost the St. Louis aggregation just enough runs to allow the nome team a victors Corcoran put up a phenomenal game at short. Score:

Wille Ham was all smiles when he re-turned to the stand after the Ataman race. Before he went to the post he said they had to go better than 1 41 1-2 to beat him and he won galloping in 1:41 3-4.

Noble Duke ran a good race to the head of the stretch and will bear watching in a six furlong race. "Minch," one of the assistant starters, should be more careful with his whip. He struck Houlahan a couple of sharp blows while at the post in the fifth race.

J. Moore's finish on White Cockade was something superb. He literally lifted the horse into third place a nose before

Henry Schultz bet a pile of money on Bessetter, and would have cashed with a decent boy in the saddle. Murphy would have won with Jim McLaughlin, if he had not been interfered Boxing at Kernan's. The boxing contest last night at Ker-nan's between Jack Daily, of Wilmington, and Billy Payne, of Philadelphia, resulted in a draw. Both men were tired at the finish. Daily received a blow on the temple in the seventh round that almost finished him. Payne was decidedly groupy in the ninth round, but Daily was too weak to put bins out. The boxing contests are very interesting, and the theater and sum-company to enjoin the Light Company from cutting off the clubs light will be argued in the court of appeals this morning. Judge Cox granted the injunction asked for and the appeal is by the Light Company.

To night Thomas Colwell, the pride of the race track and horse men, will meet Jocko Brown, the local colored heavy-weight.
